Lester and Ellie met when he roomed with the family that lived next door to Allie (Burnett) Matthews, Ella's mother. The two of them walked to the streetcar together to go to work. Ellie was working at Titcher's and Lester was working at a meat packing plant. He later worked for a power plant, and then went to work for the U. S. Post Office in Dallas. They were married in her parents' home when Ellie was almost 18 years old and Lester was almost 20 years old.

Lester Allison and C. D. Marchman both went to work for the post office on the same day. They took the civil service exam on the same day in 1913, took the required medical exam on the same day, and both reported for work on 2 June 1913. Both men started out working in the outgoing mails division, sorting letters. They were both promoted to supervisors in 1937, and both men retired on the same day, 31 May 1957, nearly 44 years after they began work together. At the time of their retirement, they were both "foremen of mails". It was while he was working for the post office that Lester acquired the nickname of "Pete". The men there began calling him that, and the name stuck. Even his grandchildren called him that.

Lester and Ellie Matthews married on 12 July 1911, and Marjorie was born on 1 June 1912. For the last couple of months before she was born, Lester and Ellie lived with her parents on Rosemont Street in Dallas, so Ellie's mother could be there to help with the birth of the child and to help for a time after. They stayed there for about three months, according to a letter from Ruth Matthews to her Grandma Burnett. By July 11 when Ruth's letter was written they had moved to their home at 3012 Holmes St. They later lived at 193 Alexander, 446 Gould St., and 607 S. Lamar St.

Alfred, Jr., was born on 7 March 1917, and in the summer of 1919 (after Marjorie's seventh birthday), the family moved into a home which Pete had built for them at 402 E. Woodin Blvd. He contracted the work out, but supervised its construction. Their third child, Glenn, was born in this home on 24 July 1926.

Marjorie M., daughter, female, age 17, single, attending school, Stenographer, Insurance;
Alfred L. Jr., son, male, age 13, attending school;
Glen E., son, male, age 3-9/12.
Everyone in the household was born in Texas, and everyone could read and write.

Pete took great pride in his home and yard, and he used to spend some time nearly every evening hand-watering the grass, so that it would get just the right amount of water, and be good and healthy. There was a small building behind the house which housed chickens for some time, and was a playhouse for Marjorie after they quit raising chickens, but when they bought their first car, the playhouse was turned into a garage. Their first car was a Chevrolet touring car, which Pete got when Marjorie was in high school. He took her out to country roads and taught her to drive in this car when she was fourteen years old (1926).

For a time the principal and one of the teachers at Trinity Heights Grammar School lived and boarded with the Allison's. There are a couple of photographs of them with Ellie, Marjorie, and Alfred, probably taken about 1920 or 1921. Marjorie says that the year she was in the first grade, her first grade teacher lived with them.

Lester was president of the local branch of post office clerks, and delivered the welcome address at a state convention held in Dallas (date unknown). He and Ella were members of Oak Cliff Christian Church and later Rosemont Christian Church in Dallas. They were known as "Mother Al" and "Pete" by their grandchildren. Grandchildren often spent several days and nights at a time at their home, and during the heat of the day, they were expected to lie down quietly for a while. Mother Al would often sing hymns for them while they rested.

Ella's mother lived with them for many years, even while they still had children living at home. A room was fixed for her at the back of the house, and she had her own furniture there and a trunk which held memorabilia. That trunk was always a fascination to her grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Lester and Ella lived in their home on Woodin Blvd. until several years after he retired. Then they moved into an apartment which would be easier to care for. After Pete died, Ella moved into a Presbyterian Nursing Home in Oak Cliff. When they died, Lester and Ella had seven grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. They were members of Rosemont Christian Church for many years. They were both buried in Laurel Land Cemetery in Dallas, Texas.

He was born 20 December 1910, Culleoka, Tennessee.

He died 21 August 1994, Dallas, Dallas County, Texas.

Marjorie & Carlyle Hight had 3 daughters.

Marjorie graduated valedictorian from Sunset High School in Dallas, Texas, in January 1930. Carlyle graduated from the same school in June 1930 as salutatorian. The two of them dated in their last year of high school, and in fact, double-dated with W.L. Massey and his girl friend. She married Carlyle in 1934, and she married W.L. in 1981 (after meeting him again for the 50th reunion of their high school class). She pursued a career in bookkeeping, working for several companies. She specially enjoyed her years as associate director of the Publications Office at Southern Methodist University. In 1976 she was recognized with the Favorite Staff Person Award presented by students and staff at SMU.

She was an active member of East Dallas Christian Church, participating in the women's programs and the Williams Couples Class there. She was also a member of several book clubs, AARP and other community organizations. She loved gardening and maintained a beautiful yard and floral landscape. She also enjoyed traveling, and went to Europe on several art study trips led by her son-in-law, Ken Lawrence. She also travelled extensively in the United States with her AARP group. She was an expert in needlework.

Marjorie had Parkinson's Disease in her later years, and ultimately died from complications due to that disease.

Carlyle was a salesman, working for life insurance companies, and for Balfour and Josten's companies. He was an avid photographer, and as a consequence, we have many photographs of people in our family. He was an active member of East Dallas Christian Church and various community organizations. He had many interests – boating, woodworking, oil painting, and ceramics – in addition to photography. He died in a car wreck near San Jose, California, in 1976.
