Later on page 67:

State }
vs. } Present as above
Joseph Flemming }

This day came the parties by their attornies [sic] and thereupon came a jury of good and lawful men to wit: Isham Bradley, John Waller, Joel Bradshaw, William Clary, Elijah Ward, Robert Glenn, James Moore, Jabez Fitzgerald, Ericus Smith, Solomon Burford, Joab Scallion and John Scoggins, who being elected tried and sworn the truth to say upon this suit the State vs. Joseph Flemming upon their oaths do say, the Defendant is not guilty but it appearing to the Court that there is a strong presumption of the guilt of the said Defendant it is ordered that he pay the costs of the prosecution. Judgment accordingly.

Comment: It is difficult to determine what happened on these two pages. Probably these are two different suits, rather than one continuing suit. Flemming was found guilty in the first and just barely not guilty in the second.
